Gentlemen,

I have read your letter of 21 July 1980 with considerable interest and with some concern. I appreciate your conviction that the Hong Kong Government should actively promote Moral Education in the community and particularly in the schools, and I have passed a copy of your letter to the Director of Education.

I am disturbed by your assertion that the results of the Government's campaign have achieved negligible results. On the contrary I believe we have made tangible progress in many of the areas you cite. Nevertheless I am most certainly not complacent and I can assure you that your proposals will be most carefully considered by the Director of Education who will be writing to you more fully once this examination has been completed.

Yours sincerely,

Jack Oates

Acting Governor
